

Meet Jerauld Adams

After graduating from Clarkson University, Adams worked as an environmental engineer while continuing his venture in real estate. Today, he owns North American Industries, Inc., a successful real estate development and management company with square footage exceeding 200,000 and over 95 tenants.